Eaton Corporation purchased the Westinghouse Distribution and Control Business Unit (DCBU) in 1994. This acquisition included all manufacturing operations and technology used by Westinghouse to manufacture and sell electrical distribution and control products. Eaton Corporation created a new division in late 1997, now called the Eaton Engineering Services and Systems Division, in order to directly provide field engineering and service.

Today, pursuant to the agreements regarding the acquisition of the DCBU from Westinghouse in 1994, the only companies which are permitted to manufacture and sell electrical distribution equipment with an Eaton, Cutler-Hammer or Westinghouse trademark is Eaton Corporation. Eaton Electrical Services and Systems is the only engineering group which is authorized by the manufacturer to work on Eaton, Cutler-Hammer and Westinghouse electrical distribution products.
