Item 22 - Perry Financial \(As Referenced Within Minutes\)

This item regarding forensic accounting services was moved up from later in the agenda. City Manager Kennie Hobbs explained this item was to procure forensic auditing services for the HHS grant ($3.8 million COVID funds) and LHPP grants (three grants totaling roughly $1 million). Originally 13 respondents were narrowed to 5 for presentation. The commission could select one firm for both audits or two separate firms.

Commissioner Dunn noted proposals incorrectly stated LHPP managed the grants, when actually city finance and grants departments managed them. City Manager Hobbs confirmed the city received the $1.6 million reimbursement previously outstanding, and explained there would be an audit meeting before work begins to clarify scope and processes.

Four firms presented:

Perry & Associates (Jeff Sandy): Based in Marietta, Ohio. Emphasized their forensic audit examines 100% of transactions versus regular audits' sampling. They use AI program Data Snipper to analyze thousands of documents quickly. Team includes former West Virginia cabinet secretaries who managed $400+ million in COVID funds with no audit issues. Proposed examining vendors receiving over $2,000, focusing on the few vendors receiving majority of funds. Recently completed Baltimore investigation clearing individual of misconduct. Offered to provide free financial fraud prevention training for elderly residents.

Forvis Mazars (Kim Swain, Eddy Castaneda): Team includes grants management experts with 20-30 years experience and forensics experts. Firm manages COVID relief funds for multiple clients including entire states. Local presence in Fort Lauderdale with extensive Florida governmental experience. Scored highly on client satisfaction. Emphasized independence checks and combining both financial and programmatic grant expertise.

EFPR Group (Jim Marasco, Courtney Brock): CPAs and certified fraud examiners with extensive government experience. Audited billions in COVID money including $2 billion for District of Columbia. Lower price point at $27,000 for both audits. Focus on following money trail and written documentation.

UHY Advisors (Jack Reagan): Team of 25 specialists monitoring $4+ billion in COVID relief funds for 25 governments. Plan includes process understanding and 100% transaction review. Use staff leverage to control costs with senior staff supervising day-to-day work.

Commissioner Campbell emphasized respecting firms that appeared in person, showing commitment to understand the city. He preferred firms physically present for accountability. He raised concerns about local associations potentially compromising independence, which all firms assured wouldn't be an issue through conflict checks and professional standards.

Commissioner Campbell asked about differences between HHS and LHPP grants, understanding of federal requirements, dealing with missing documentation, and comfort with either/both audits. Firms confirmed understanding and capability for both.

Commissioner Dunn inquired about grant management experience versus just financial auditing, capacity with current workloads, data analysis technology, completion timelines, understanding of scope including process evaluation, strategies when staff no longer employed, hour distributions and staff qualifications.

After presentations, commissioners deliberated. Commissioner Campbell favored Perry first, Forvis second. Vice Mayor Martin chose EFPR first (lowest price for both audits) then Perry. Commissioner Dunn selected Forvis (combined expertise) then Perry. Commissioner Hodgson chose Perry then Forvis. Mayor Grant noted Perry had majority support.

Barbara Robinson, Maple Run HOA President, and owner Travis McCarthy addressed the commission about flooding in their community since before 2020. Mr. Robinson described knee-deep water after just 10-15 minutes of rain, having worked diligently with city staff including the late Desorae Giles-Smith. Mr. McCarthy, a 9-year resident, confirmed cars must park in front with residents walking home during flooding, making people reconsider staying despite it being a nice community otherwise. They waited from 6 PM to ensure their voices were heard regarding the item.

Commissioner Dunn pulled this shuttle service agreement to ensure approving it wouldn't preclude route amendments. Parks and Recreating Director Scott Newton confirmed it wouldn't, explaining Broward County is studying all routes over 30-45 days for recommendations. Commissioner Dunn expressed concerns about stops in front of homes and ensuring stops serve 55+ communities appropriately, citing Greens of Inverrary residents having to walk far to Rock Island area stops. Mr. Newton confirmed the study would address alternative locations and proximity to senior communities.
